ABOUT SPAIN

Barcelona - If you only visit one city in Spain, it should be Barcelona. After Barcelona hosted the 1992 Olympics, it became well known as a sporting city. Sporting developments have sprung up all over the city, with the epicenter the slopes of Montjuïc. Barcelona is sophisticated, elegant and romantic, but boasts the energy of a port city. There is a fascinating old quarter, the Barri Gòtic, and a night scene to rival any in the country. Barcelona is also well known because of CF de Barcelona. A visit to their home stadium, the impressive Nou Camp, is highly recommended.

Santa Susanna - is located in the Spanish region of Catalonia on the Costa Maresme. The resort is commonly regarded as being on the better known Costa Brava. A popular holiday destination with Spanish and foreign tourists since the 1970s, this is a relaxed resort with plenty of entertainment in the summer months and a host of major attractions within easy reach. The old town of Santa Susanna, set back from the beachfront, retains much of its original charm with narrow cobbled streets, ancient buildings and monuments and traditional way of life. Down at the seafront you'll find all the trappings of modern tourism with international bars and restaurants, ice cream parlours and a wealth of water sports to serve the seasonal influx of summer visitors. The resort is sandwiched between the Mediterranean and the mountainous wooded hinterland of the Massif Montnegre, a beautiful national park which attracts nature lovers, hikers, mountain bikers and horse riders.

Zaragoza - a vibrant, elegant and fascinating city. Located on the banks of the mighty Río Ebro, the residents comprise over half of Aragón's population and enjoy a lifestyle that revolves around some of the best tapas bars in the province, as well as superb shopping and a vigorous nightlife. But Zaragoza is so much more than just a good-time city: it also has a host of historical sights spanning all the great civilizations.

Madrid - Madrid, the capital of Spain since 1562, is located on the geographic center of the Iberian Peninsula along the river Manzanares. Madrid is a city of great monuments. But Madrid is not just a cultural destination; it is also a lively metropolis with many pubs, cafes and nightclubs. Madrid is a melting pot of different cuisines from all over the peninsula. The capital of Spain has enriched its belly with the contributions of the Andalusians, Galicians, Asturians and other immigrants who have settled here.

TESTIMONIALS

"The trip to Barcelona was the experience of a lifetime for our U13 boys' soccer team - a perfect mix of sport and cultural activities. The training Excel arranged was excellent with high caliber coaches from the Espanyol and Barcelona youth teams. The matches against local Spanish teams were challenging and a great learning experience. The skills and style of play learned on the trip remain a continual reference point. In between all the playing time, we had a chance to watch a top La Liga game, visit Camp Nou and also see the spectacular sites of Barcelona and the surrounding area. Our team's focus was soccer, soccer, soccer and Excel obliged, but I have no doubt that they would arrange an equally memorable trip for those who are looking for a different emphasis. Given the chance, we would all do it again!"
